Congress Readies Bipartisan Support For Johnson Move

By ERNEST VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two top Senate committees overwhelmingly approved today a resolution giving bipartisan backing to President Johnson's military actions in Southeast

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees sped the resolution to the Senate floor for what Democratic and Republican leaders hoped would be quick passage there.

They did so after Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked them to put Congress on record as leaving Communist aggressors "in no doubt whatever" of the unity and determination of the American people to defend Negro Says Southeast Asia against Red ag-

A Lisbon area man and a Pennsylvania youth were killed in separate one-car accidents Wednesday night and early today. Three others were hospitalized as a result of the crash which claimed the life of the youth.

The victims were Paul W. Faulk, 42, of Lisbon R. D. 4 and John Pellarino, 18, of New Castle, Pa. Their deaths raised the 1964 traffic toll in Columbiana County to 14, compared with 15 for the same period in 1963. Enough Kindling To Do It

President Johnson ordered the U.S. Navy to shoot to kill if any more PT boats attacked units of the 7th fleet in Tonkin Gulf.

More attacks occurred. The Navy shot to kill. "The "paper tiger" bared his teeth.

No one knows what will happen now. But enough kindling is piled up in Southeast Asia to ignite a full-scale war.

The Chinese People's Republic warned of retaliation if the United States "escalated" the war against North Viet Nam, repeating the policy of France from 1945 until 1954, when French military forces finally were overrun and crushed at Dienbienphu.

The United States reacted to Red China's threat of retaliation by sending more "advisers" to South Viet Nam. South Viet Nam military leadership has been embarrassing U.S. military leadership with blustering talk about carrying the war north into territory whose security has been guaranteed by Red China. Everybody is spoiling for a fight.

THROUGHOUT Asia, as the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur reminded his countrymen when he returned to the United States after the fiasco in Korea, the fires of nationalism are burning fiercely. The white man is on the defensive.

The United States and whatever Occidental allies it may win for a showdown in Southeast Asia cannot avoid being the symbol of white colonialism, hateful to colored hordes who know little and care even less about the ideological battle between capitalism and communism. North Viet Nam has been ringing all the changes on this theme.

This is Korea all over again, with a recent oppressor ousted an a new savior trying to keep communism from filling the power vacuum.

France had its chance to save Indo China and failed. When it pulled out, communism moved in, exactly the same way communism moved into Korea after the end of World War II.

The resulting Korean War lasted three years. Casualties exceeded 2,300,000 for both sides. The United States lost more than 24,000 lives and counted a total of more than 136,000 wounded.

WHEN AN ARMISTICE finally was arranged in 1953, the United States despaired of reaching more than a standoff in its long-distance battle against communism in Asia. It had learned that the Communist conspiracy there was making shrewd use of Asiatic nationalism to keep white men on the defensive - "to make Asia safe for Asiatics."

This is what the United States is up against in Viet Nam. This is what licked the French. This is what broke up the

There will be plenty of time and occasion for patriotic fervor if the Chinese Peoples' Republic and its North Viet Nam stooge have decided to wage all-out war.

While the evidence on that point is being awaited, it may help to remember the outcome of an all-out war in Korea. When it was all over, a standoff had been achieved — no victory.

But no defeat, either. South Korea did not fall to the Reds.

Little By Little

The efforts of Wellsville councilmen to correct some of that city's traffic problems bring to mind similar situations being faced in East Liverpool and neighboring communities.

The traffic commission here has plenty of headaches to keep it busy and it is only through a concentrated, continuous study that there can be any hope of a satisfactory remedy. Streets which were too narrow to begin with complicate the matter. And the ever-increasing number of automobiles using these streets doesn't

By tackling the problems piece by piece, however, and by trying first this and then that; groups intrusted with the task of correcting undesirable traffic situations should be able to come up with some changes which should prove beneficial in the long run.

Herbert Hoover At 90

It is one of the behavior oddities of the American people that we admire Sir Winston Churchill extravagantly and congratulated him en masse on his 89th birthday recently yet are diffident about our own "great man"-Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Hoover will be 90 on Monday. By any standard of measurement - personal accomplishment, public service, breadth of interest, depth of purpose, integrity, insight, courage and leadership-he is one of the great men of his generation.

His status in America is flawed by a single circumstance—the fact he was president of the United States when a worldwide economic collapse occurred in the late '20s. It became a prime political project of the political opposition at the time to smear his name and reputation, in order to make it appear that he personally had been responsible for the depression that ensued in the United States. The project was carried out so expertly that until the second campaign of Dwight D. Eisenhower the Hoover smear was still being exploited by his one-time political opponents. He rose above this long ago, just as Winston Churchill has outlived the political opponents who caused him to be voted out of office after he had served Britain with historic distinction in World

But the moral is too pointed and too

Brainstorming

Everybody who wanted to be frank and earnest about onward and upward with the free enterprise system a few years ago was twitchy about brainstorm-

Brainstorming had been developed, we were assured, into a masterful technique. All the best people were doing it. It was foolproof.

What you did was to put a bunch of people into a room, tell them to make themselves comfortable, then explain to them the theory of brainstorming.

Two heads were better than one and 20 heads were better yet. What you were going to do, you explained to the multiple heads, was give them a chance to show how smart they could be if they thought they dared to speak freely.

That was the big thing - they thought they dared to speak freely. It never had happened to them before.

UNDER ordinary circumstance, people called on to participate in brainstorming - to give top management the benefit of their collective wisdom - had kept their mouths buttoned up for fear of putting their feet therein.

They were victims of institutional brainwashing, which had reduced them to rubber stamps. They had been imbued with the company line, to the point where they confined all utterances to the gospel according to No. 1, as passed down from on high and trickled through to the lowly Indians by the intermediate straw bosses.

Brainstorming was going to be a chance for the little fellows to bubble forth like intellectual artesian wells while the big fellows quaffed their fill of the outpouring. They were encouraged to say anything that came to mind — to talk freely. There was only one thing wrong with poignant to be shrugged off by the rest

Greatness in our contemporaries is recognized by most of us only when we have gained perspective. Until then, the stature of the great seems no greater than the stature of the pygmies snapping at their heels and plucking at their sleeves. Herbert Hoover is 90. We are glad he is still with us. We have that much more time to appreciate him.

A Logical Stand

In view of frequent remarks heard since the bond issue first was proposed, it is hoped the Board of Education can come up as promised with possible sites for the proposed schools before a $3,380,000 bond issue is submitted at a special election Sept. 15.

The time is short, but the need for such action is great, and almost imperative, if the bond issue is to have a chance of receiving a favorable vote.

The gist of the remarks that have come to our attention - and there have been quite a few - is that "We're for new schools, but we don't want to buy a pig in a poke. We want to know where the buildings will be located!"

It's difficult to find fault with such reasoning. It's a logical attitude for a person to take when the investment of part of his earnings is at stake.

By Truman Twill

. . two things if you looked at both sides.

The main thing was the way it undermined the prestige of management. Lo and behold, the Indians were as smart as the chief when they had a chance to talk freely, without fear of contradiction.

The other thing was the belated realization that the Indians not only were talking freely. They were talking for free.

IF THEY SPILLED everything they knew for the sake of playing management's brainstorming game, they had nothing left to sell if their chance came to move up a notch in the organization. Their brains already had been picked bare by opportunists boosting themselves to the top of the ladder.

Gradually, the big boys began to cool off and the little boys to freeze up. Brainstorming, which had started out like the biggest thing since inside plumbing, faded

No one talks about it any more. It served its purpose. The people who were barren of ideas refueled their think tanks.

What the country needs now is another brisk round of brainstorming to give its peerless leaders new ideas for grappling with old problems. Who will lead off?

How Did Malcolm X Get So 'Big'?

By Victor Riesel

Malcolm X, whom the Chinese Communists call the "Chairman of the Afro-American Unity Organization," spent a considerable amount of his time in the presence of international Communist propagandsts here. Not only did he endorse the rioting back home but he publicly called Victor Riesel for retaliation against the white community. He said the time had come to meet "violence with violence; an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth." He prepared a series of inflammatory anti-U.S. documents here on the pretext of presenting them to the recent meeting of the Organization of African Unity, and it was reported across the world that he attended the conference. This is nonsense. He did not get near the parley. He was not accredited STREETS WERE roped off. Hotels which the heads of states and foreign ministers occupied were cleared of all but official guests. Only those with special blue cards and lapel badges. which were changed daily, were able to get anywhere near the conference area. All but the short formal opening session were executive meetings.

I was at that session. I talked later with several heads of state -many of them old friends whom I had helped in the U.S. when they were in exile. They are now among America's best friends in Africa.

Malcolm X was not at any of the conference sessions. I was informed that it "is ridiculous" and "undignified" to think for a moment that anyone such as Malcolm X would be heard by the African counterpart of the Organization of American States.

Malcolm X's activity here was strictly a propaganda operation which he set up at the Hotel Semiramis, where some newsmen gathered. He made certain that his violent anti-U.S. diatribes were put in the hands of the Chinese Communist correspondents planted here by the New China News Agency.

WHEN MALCOLM X wanted to be with his pro-Communist friends he went over to the Hotel Omar Khavvam (on Zamalik, an island in the middle of Cairo), a former palace. I vouch for this personally. I was there when he met Mrs. Shirley Graham DuBois, widow of the late Rr. W. E. DuBois, in the lobby. When the aged Dr. DuBois died recently, he was a member of the Communist party, U.S.A., and had switched his citizenship

The Hotel Omar Khayyam was also the headquarters of the violently anti-U.S., pro-Communist Ghanaian delegation to the African States' conference. On Thursday, July 16 Malcolm X and his frequent companion, Mrs. DuBois, met for hours in the garden restaurant of the hotel.

to Ghana.

Mrs. DuBois and her late husband, one of the most active of Negro Communist leaders in the U.S., spent much time in Peking. They were frequent guests of Mao Tze-tung himself. Dr. DuBois delivered many anti-U.S. speeches which were broadcast across the world by the powerful Chinese mainland

MRS. DuBOIS long has been active in world Communist circles. Her background is important here to show the strange inter-weaving of characters now attempting to infiltrate and agitate the Negro communities of the U.S.

Mrs. DuBois knew the Castro brothers, Fidel and Raoul, in Mexico as far back as the late '40s. She now is associated with the pro-Communist "Freedomways," a publication allegedly devoted to the Negroes.

In the last few years she has been a prolific writer in defense of the pro-Communist dictatorial state of Ghana.

She even praised the appointment of a convicted British spy as the head of the department of physics at the comparatively new University of Ghana. The spy, who served a long prison term in England, is Dr. Alan Nunn May, once a member of the most secret British atomic research agency.

INTELLIGENCE AGENTS of several countries now are eager to learn just how Black Nationalist leader Malcolm X made contact with such Communist activists as Mrs. DuBois. Of considerable interest is the source of Malcolm X's funds now that the Muslims under Elijah Muhammad have declared war on him.

Malcolm X has been making expensive and extensive trips across Africa. I ran into his trail in several cities-especially in Ibadan, Nigeria, where he delivered speeches so anti-U.S., so incendiary, that they could be printed only on asbestos.

It's also being noticed that the Chinese Communist broadcasts have been featuring him and his splinter sect.

Crises Compared

By Lewis Gulick

WASHINGTON President Johnson's most serious international crisis so far lacks the quick explosive potential of President Kennedy's Cuban missiles showdown, but Southeast Asia could still cause big trouble in the long run.

This is the opinion of administration insiders who worked both with the late president during the 1962 missiles confrontation and with Johnson in the decision to strike back at North Viet Nam's navy. As Secretary of State Dean Rusk figures it, the Cuba affair saw the world's two great nuclear powers - the United States and the Soviet Union on collision course. A push of the button then could have plunged the northern hemisphere into a nuclear holocaust.

By George Lichty

GRIN AND BEAR IT

In Viet Nam shots have been fired, but not atomic ones. Hanoi and Peking don't hold a nuclear trigger. And that, says Rusk, makes today's difficulty less of an immediate danger and incomparable "in any significant way to the Cuban missile

So far, so good. But what will happen later is loaded with uncertainty.

The U.S. counterattack was avowedly geared to keeping the fighting limited. Whether it spreads into a bigger war, say U.S. strategists, is up to the Reds - and they admittedly don't know just what the Communists will decide to do beyond firing a propaganda barrage and making threats.

Will Red China march into Southeast Asia in a massive way: Will the Soviets patch up their split with Peking enough to form a tough united front?

The prevailing theory here has been that the Soviet Union will not rush support to the distant Southeast Asian land where its influence has been losing out to Peking. Red China has been the more militant backer of North Viet Nam's aggressions. However, China appears not to have effective military means of replying to the U.S. counterthrust short of a large scale land invasion to the South. That would mean a big war at a tremendous price to her.

Washington hopes the Communist response will be to move more cautiously on the military front. Even with that the South Viet Nam campaign still looms long and costly.

The most dangerous span of the Cuban missile crisis lasted about two weeks. The Southeast Asia danger has lurked for years and even the optimists predict it will be many months before it is licked

Ranger Flight Is Only The Beginning

The Lunar Puzzle

By Earl Ubell

er's incredible moon pictures have taken a breathless spurt forward in their ability to read the lunar story. But they have the same facility to understand that story as Egyptologists confronted with hieroglyphics just after the discovery of the Rosetta stone.

For the moon is a strange, large country - never before seen except at a distance and as in a crude mirror. Those pictures will create a new intimacy between man and his nearest celestial neighbor. They are only a beginning.

Beyond Ranger, the scientists plan a series of spaceships to unfold the hidden lunar history in still greater details and at the end to bring man and moon together: human foot on Selene surface.

Almost immediately - next January and March-two more Rangers identical to Ranger 7 will take close-ups of the surface but at different locations.

THEN SOMETIME next year the first of seven unbelievably complex Surveyor spaceships capable of landing softly on the moon will take pictures so close to the surface it will be as if the scientists had their noses on the ground. Later they will test that surface.

Then there will be Lunar Orbiter-a satellite of the moon launched in 1966 capable of snapping a continuous strip of pictures from an altitude of 60 miles. Those pictures will broadcast back to earth a complete topographic map of the moonback and front.

All of this has little value for the military - few men can dream up a mission that requires the moon as a base. Industry is in the same position; except for the support of the aerospace manufacturers with space contracts, the moon seems to have little commercial value at present.

However, for science and for pure adventure, the pay-off is enormous. Scientists hope to use the moon information to understand the origin, structure and perhaps ultimate fate of the universe.

Engineers need the pictures and data from Ranger, Surveyor and Lunar Orbiter to land a couple of men safely on the moon and to get them back to earth in the $30 billion project Apollo. They need the information if they are to meet the late President Kennedy's deadline

THE THREE unmanned ex- mapping on a global scale. pioratory programs will help them design the vehicle that is to touch down on the moonthe so-called Lunar Excursion Module (LEM). Those 3-foot gopher holes that showed up on Ranger's pictures could trip a ship that came slanting in toward the surface at high speed.

And then there is the question: Will the surface not only support a man but a multi-ton enough bearing strength, or is it powder that folds like dry snow? The first look at Ranger's pictures says that the sea of clouds doesn't seem to be covered with thick dust but that may not be the whole story.

Surveyor may help men decipher the riddle of the lunar surface. The first four of the seven will be mainly engineering devices to test out the principle of soft landing. But they will have a set of TV cameras capable of taking a 360-degree swing as the Surveyor sits on the surface.

To land softly Surveyor must start a braking rocket when it is a few thousand to a few hundred feet from the surface. Long ago the first Rangers attempted to cushion the landing of an earthquake (really moonquake) meter this way. They failed.

THEN IN 1966, three Rangers will land carrying an array of scientific instruments to give the scientists their first feel of the surface. Again there will be moonquake meters to test the internal rumblings of the 2,160-mile-diameter globe

Stereo television will broadcast back to earth three-dimension views of the moonscape. A device for measuring the moon's local magnetism will determine if the rocks contain magnetic materials.

Some of those surveyors will carry devices for making the crucial load-bearing test. Such a gadget will extend a long arm and scratch the surface. Devices on board will radio back "scratchability" of the material.

A special gadget for firing atomic particles at a sample of lunar material will determine the rough composition of the soil. This will be done by measuring the number and kind of particles that bounce back to a radiation counter.

While seven Surveyors have been contracted for, the scientists have tentative plans for 10 more. They should give a most detailed picture of the surface of large parts of the moon before a man ever sets foot there.

BEYOND SURVEYOR there are plans for loading a device on a Surveyor bus that will crawl out and away from the mother ship in a one-mile circle. As it crawls, it televises and broadcasts the picture to the mother ship and back to earth.

Lunar Orbiter performs aerial

When the men set down in their lunar bugs, they will be able to view the scene in threedimensional color-with their own eyes. They will be able to scoop up a sample of the lunar stuff and take it back to earth They can make extensive drilling tests and snap microscopic pictures of the surface. But that, too, will be only the beginning.

Today In History

Today is Thursday, August 6, the 219th day of 1964. There are 147 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history On this date in 1945, a B29 over Hiroshima, Japan, dropped a parachute carrying a bomb. Seconds later a blinding explosion reduced half the city to dust and ashes, the first use of the atomic bomb. On this date:

(Continued from Page 1) abolished the party some months earlier. Ho knew that in the struggle which would follow, he could lead Viet Nam not as a Communist but as a Nationalist. He kept up the fiction until 1951 when he formed the Lien Viet (United National Front) in which the Lao Dong (Communist) Workers' party was to the leading element.

During the long years of war against the French, Ho was cold-blooded in liquidating those who threatened his power or that of the Communists. At the time of victory in 1954 he was in absolute control.

Then came the division of the country.

Today, 10 years later, the north is reported caught in the grip of economic hard times, with black marketing, corruption, food shortages, unemployment and low wages.

Of Nocturnal Plant

About 100 persons visited the home of Mrs. William Ingold, 567 Florida Ave., Chester, Wednesday night to see a nightblooming cereus in full blossom.

The lily-type nocturnal flower blooms once a year for seven years then rests for seven years and is also known as 'Christ in the Cradle," as the interior parts form the shape of a cross. It is about 10 inches across and seven inches deep and is on a 10-inch stem. The main portion of the flower is white and the lower part of the interior is gold and yellow. She has had the plant seven years, and the bloom was still visible this morning.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago I began to take out a very attractive woman who is successful in business and companion.

Three weeks ago this woman went to Europe on business. When she returned I went to the airport to meet her. Her plane landed 20 minutes early. When I arrived, there she was, sitting in the airport smoking a cigar. It wasn't one of those dainty little cigars, Ann, it was a big black one, the kind pool players and politicians smoke. When I asked what she was trying to prove, she replied, "It's very fashionable now and frankly I enjoy it." I'm a fairly sophisticated guy Severest Critics of it?-SMOKE RINGS.

Allen Hits 2-Run Blast In 6-1 Win

Associated Press Sports Writer Dean Chance, who shares his escapades with Bo Belinsky, now has hooked onto a guy to share his shutouts.

Chance usually works alone on the mound but needed a collaborator Wednesday night and found rookie Bob Lee a willing accomplice as the two combined efforts in the Los Angels' 1-0 shutout over the pennant-hope-ful Baltimore Orioles.

It was the Angels second successive shutout against the Orioles, their ninth in the last month and their 18th of the season - tops in the American League. And Chance and Lee have had their hands in an even Wellsville held firmly to second place in the Tri - County League with a sweep of a doubleheader at Carrollton Wednesday night.

Wellsville won the first game 3-2 and came back to win the nightcap, 8-1.

Jack Call was the hitting hero of the first game with a single that drove in two runs in the ninth inning. Wellsville had entered the final inning trailing, 2-1, before Call brought home the winning markers.

Bo Agnew was the winning pitcher in the first game allowing Carrollton only four hits. Los Angeles at Pittsburgh, N Wellsville collected 10 safeties. In the second game, Jim Miles

A Junior Editors Quiz About ANIMALS

QUESTION: "Hippos" means horse, but why is it used in "hippopotamus"?

ANSWER: "Hippos" is Greek for horse and "potamus" for river, together they mean river horse. It does seem ridiculous to compare this ungainly creature, one of the ugliest of animals, with the graceful horse, to which it is not closely related. Both belong to the "ungulates," animals with horny hoofs or hooflike nails. But the horse, with one hoof to a foot, belongs to the "odd-toed" ungulates, while the hippo with his 4 hooflike nails, is part of the "even-toed" group, like the pig.

However, the hippo has very horselike ears, even if small, and his heavy head with square muzzle has a certain grotesque resemblance to a horse's head. Hippos love to lie in water with only the ears and eyes showing. Seen like this, a hippo does resemble a horse, and the resemblance grows as he shows the top of his head while pulling himself up a river bank. This is no doubt the basis for the name "river

The huge size and extremely tough skin of the hippopotamus mean that these animals have few enemies. They seem to enjoy their lives as they lie wallowing in the river water, the best place to be in the hot, tropical African country which is the hippo's home.

FOR YOU TO DO: Find out more about the ungulates, and make a list showing which belong to the even-toed group and which to the odd-toed group. Besides horses, pigs and hippos, where do rhinos, tapirs, cattle, deer and sheep fit in?

Patricia Schaaf of King of Prussia, Pa., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you may win the weekly grand prize of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia.
